HEDEGARD SEES SPEEDY SUCCESS FOR PRUNE POOL

The prune pool has become a fact. Prosperity will not be slow in following it.

So believes S. N. Hedegard, Campbell prune grower and member of the Orchard City Grange, who was one of the five men most instrumental in securing the success of the most scientific organization among prune growers.

"Members of the prune pool," affirms the grower, "will almost immediately feel the results of consolidation."

Prices will rise as a result of the greater bargaining power of the organization. Demand will be greater because of better correlation of advertising campaigns.

The upward trend in prices is already evident, according to Mr. Hedegard. He points out that the season's opening prices are much higher than they were last year. He is convinced that they will continue to rise.

"However," he emphasizes, "rising prices are dependent upon the loyalty of the members of the prune pool. So long as they cooperate, so long will the pool remain successful. And just so long will the prices be maintained at a high level."

One of the chief obstacles to the prune pool, in Mr. Hedegard's opinion, is the presence of outside "bootlegger" packers. In the past a considerable quantity of fruit was held back by growers, and sold to these outside packers, in a vain attempt to make more money than could be obtained by cooperating with the prune association.

This backsliding of growers interfered with the bargaining powers of the organization; it imperiled its morals.

"There is no indication," notes Mr. Hedegard, "that this practice of holding back will not prevail, to some extent, during 1932. However, although it will seriously interfere with the aims of the Pool, it cannot defeat the eventual outcome of the plan."

Grange Hears Burnett On California History

A great-grandson of Peter Burnett, the first governor of California, John Burnett, addressed the members of the Campbell Grange Tuesday night.

The history of California, from the time explorers first glimpsed it until it became a mature state, was described vividly by Mr. Burnett, who has made a specialty of California history.

California owes much to the rule of the Spaniards, he pointed out, explaining how agriculture, religion, and community development were built up through the efforts of educated Indians, mission Fathers, and Spanish ranchers.

Turbulent days during the epoch of gold and at the time when the sturdy Vigilance committees ruled, gained new interest when pictured by Mr. Burnett.

The meeting was planned by Mrs. Jessie McChesney, Grange lecturer, and was presided over by W. H. Woodbury, worthy master.

At a business meeting preceding, provision was made for a ladies' night, in charge of Mrs. McChesney.

MEXICAN RIOTER FREED TO EARN CHILDREN'S FOOD

Because he is the sole support of his nine, poverty-stricken children, Selso Lemua, Mexican laborer, was given a six months' suspended sentence by Justice of the Peace, John D. Blaine, Monday, although he went on a drunken riot Sunday night and threatened to kill his children with a knife. Lemua pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

Neighbors of the Lemua family, who live on the outskirts of Campbell, heard the terror-stricken shrieks of the children and hurriedly aroused Herbert Shadle. The absence of telephone police facilities prevented him from reaching local policeman and he finally called the office of Sheriff Emig. Deputy Al Covey, Constable Frank Coupland and Officer Harry Evans made the arrest.

SHADLE NAMED COUNTY OFFICER IN HOOVER CLUB

H. M. Shadle, president of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed a member of the executive committee of the Santa Clara county Hoover-for-President club.

Mr. Shadle has long been active in civic and political affairs, displaying an enthusiasm and executive ability which prove that his new appointment is merited.

He will attend the dinner meeting of the county Republican committee at San Jose in O'Brien's private dining room Friday at 7 p. m.

All members of the Republican committee are invited to attend this meeting, Mr. Shadle announces, and should immediately communicate with Miss Marshman at the Republican headquarters at 140 S. First street, B. 5644, if they intend to do so.

An immense mass meeting of all Republicans in the county is scheduled for Sept. 27, according to Mr. Shadle. It will be held in the assembly room of the San Jose high school, at 8 p. m. Joseph Scott, Los Angeles, the man who nominated Hoover in the Republican convention, will be the main speaker. Mr. Scott is noted for his eloquence on the platform. He comes to the meeting directly from a conference at Washington, which he is now attending.

Santa Clara county Republicans are cordially invited to the meeting, which is open to the public free of charge.

C. of C. Will Discuss Phone, Bus Service

A special and very important meeting of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce will be held Tuesday night, Sept. 20, according to the announcement of H. M. Shadle, president.

Since the question of the bus and telephone service in Campbell will be discussed, the officials of the organization are very anxious that all persons interested attend the meeting. It is open to the public and will be held in the hall of the library building.

If possible, those present at the meeting will decide whether or not it is feasible to increase the number of busses serving Campbell and the outlying regions and whether telephone long distance tolls may be changed. Representatives of the Peerless stages and of the telephone company will speak at the meeting and will outline conditions affecting the service given by their companies.

Wendell Thomas, president of the County Consolidated Chambers of Commerce, will speak on "The Relationship of the Chamber of Commerce to the Community."

Dan Yeager, secretary of the civic group, has promised refreshments as a finishing touch for the meeting.

Youthful Strength

Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, the world-known authority on Sexology and Director of the Institute for Sexual Science of Berlin, Germany, created to help the millions of men and women who have lost or are losing their vital physical power. In his 35 years of practice and research, however, he realized that the weakening of man's glands was also responsible for other troubles: High blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, physical exhaustion after work or exercise, dizziness, depression, neurasthenia, etc.

All these troubles can be removed with Titus-Pearls. Numerous cases were treated by Dr. Hirschfeld in his Berlin Institute.

L. S. (State Official; 60 years old, married) complained of physical exhaustion, dizziness and tremors. Was easily tired. Mental powers dull and slow moving. Physical powers had been incomplete for previous 5 years. Blood pressure too high. Given 2 Titus-Pearls 3 times a day. 2 weeks later the medical report on this man was:—General health better, more vigor; dizziness much less and returning of power. Treatment continued and 2 weeks later L. S. reported again, this time to say that all weariness and exhaustion had gone; he felt fresh and buoyant. His blood pressure had fallen, and at 60 years of age he had regained the physical power and virility that he had known in the prime of his life.

Start regaining your youthfulness now! To-day! In 2 weeks time you will be aware of the new, virile force within you. Send $5.00 (cash registered or money-order) for 2 weeks treatment. C. O. D. Orders accepted. Write for booklet.

TARIFFS AND DEBTS

In speaking of the allied debts and tariffs Governor Franklin Roosevelt is quoted by the press dispatches as follows:

"The danger now is that they might turn a united front against us. This comes, I am informed, not so much from the debts they owe us as from our barriers against their trade which makes the problem so difficult. The debts will not be a problem—we shall not have to cancel them—if we are realistic about providing ways in which payment is possible through profits arising from the rehabilitation of trade."

If we are to gather anything at all from this rather nebulous statement it is that Governor Roosevelt is not in favor of cancellation of the allied debts—in which stand we agree with him—but is in favor of some tariff adjustment which will enable the allies to pay us in goods—in which we do not agree with him.

It has been frequently said and never denied, that the debts cannot be cancelled, that if the allies do not pay them the load will be fastened on the backs of the American taxpayers. But what will happen if the allies pay through an increase in exports to the United States?

Protective tariff rates in the United States are applied to equalize the cost of production at home and abroad. They are placed on commodities on which the highly paid American labor is in competition with the cheap labor of Europe and the Orient. There are no rates on ordinary commodities which cannot be produced in America and these come into our ports free.

Therefore, if tariffs are to be reduced to permit greater importations from Europe, to help the allies pay the debts, this reduction will be on goods which will come into direct and more drastic competition with American-made goods. The result will be increased unemployment in the United States and a still longer road to travel on the way back to normalcy. While the American taxpayers may not then be paying the allied war debts, the American workers will be paying in loss of wages and privations. Surely no real American wants this to happen.

In referring to "providing ways in which debt payment is possible through the profits arising from the rehabilitation of trade," Governor Roosevelt continues to be rather vague and general in his statements. If he wants to readjust our tariffs in order to revive Europe's imports to America, won't he please tell the American people just what rates he proposes to be revised and which classes of our workmen are to be subjected to increased competition from ill-paid European labor in order that the allies may pay their debts. The American people are interested in this and would like the governor to be a little more specific in the matter.

A CLOSE CALL

The "flying family," thought to be lost at sea with their four companions, were located on a rocky island after being forced down by sleet. The family consists of George Hutchinson, his wife, and their two children. The entire party had a very narrow escape from death.

One wonders what to think of a man who will unnecessarily subject his wife and children to the hazards of an ocean flight, which in this instance was to have carried them across the Atlantic ocean.

Leaders in American aviation circles have, time and time again, decried the practice of seeking to achieve personal glory by spectacular conquest of the air. One trans-Atlantic flight, made by Lindbergh, proved to the aviation world that the feat lay within the realm of possibility, and there they were content to let it be until the time came for the promotion of trans-Atlantic commercial airways.

Since that time many a good man has found only oblivion in his search for the plaudits of the multitude. And now comes a man who is not satisfied to risk his own life, but must needs risk the lives of his family as well. The "flying family," he called them. Catchy enough, and good for plenty of notoriety without the hazardous flight which nearly resulted in death for them all.

A DASTARDLY PLOT?

Alleging a deep, dark plot to wreck the California Prune and Apricot growers association and make San Jose a mere flag stop on the main line of the prune industry, the San Jose News last week launched an attack on the California Prune Pool.

Branding the location of the pool headquarters in San Francisco the first step in a deep-laid plot to merge the association with the pool and finally to destroy it altogether, the News advised growers to withdraw from the pool before it is too late. The News suggested at this late date a reorganization of the association, with a 70 per cent tonnage membership, and with Arthur McClay as its head.

Seeing the ultimate removal of the association headquarters from San Jose as the aim of the group who voted pool headquarters to San Francisco, the News would sever the two organizations, and that quickly; and it would kill the pool just as quickly.

It occurs to us that the eminent News held off a little too long before launching the attack. If it had advance information regarding the plan to locate pool headquarters in San Francisco, why didn't it say something about the plot when it was hatched, instead of saying nothing, on the assurance of Harry Dunlap that he had the situation well in hand, when questioned by the News on that very score? Particularly when it admits failure to achieve previously a state of thorough understanding with that gentleman?

How can one be sure that the News is sincere in its assertion that it has only the good of the grower and the industry as a whole at heart? Certainly it must realize that, even if the pool is not the ideal solution to the industry's marketing problem, it is a step in the right direction, and anything that happens to disrupt it at this stage of the game would be, indeed, an irreparable harm.

SCHOOL STARTS MONDAY

Next Monday girls and boys, misses and youths, will take up their school work where they dropped it three months ago. Mothers of small children will be able to enjoy a bit of respite, and the youngsters themselves are more or less eager for the grind to begin. Only it isn't so much of a grind these days, what with daily lessons dressed up in interesting garb, and a full season designed to make school life less boring.

There will be a few upperclassmen, however, who will be reluctant to resume their studies for one reason or another. These students we urge to cast aside any thought of "quitting school," and be among the first to register for the final year's classes. There is no condition which warrants the halting of a high school education, and there is certainly very little prospect of a young man or woman finding any labor sufficiently remunerative to make up for that (for many) last year of school.

Ten years ago or more an alarming number of seniors failed to show up for their final year, but now, perhaps we are alarming ourselves unduly.

PIGSKIN FROLICS

Saturday, in practically every stadium in the state, football squads from various colleges and universities will attempt mayhem on the defenseless pigskin. Massive bruisers will pummel their way through the ranks of their fellow men, and into the front ranks of the press.

Every year, it seems, interest in the great American sport becomes more intense. Men do not hesitate to back their opinions with coin of the realm, and nothing short of a thousand-dollar deal will keep them away from the games.

It is a good thing, because for a few months of each year it keeps men's—and women's—minds off of the good old depression. And they need this respite, too, before the holiday bills come in.

THINGS ARE LOOKING UP

With the prune pool taking workable shape things seem to be picking up in the valley. Nothing that you can sink your teeth into, particularly, but the general trend seems to be on the upgrade. Smiles, rather than sour looks, are the order of things, and business men hereabouts are assuming an optimistic air.

Nationally, there come reports of improved conditions in the east, with a pleasurable flurry in the stock market to bear out the rumor. Activity in the manufacturing centers and intelligent marketing of agricultural products spell salvation for us all. Nothing else will start the people spending money again.

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

"General farming," which yielded supremacy to crop specialization during the last decade, gives every evidence of a partial come-back, due to the radically changed economic and market conditions of the last few years.

While specialization and intensive production must always play a large part in California farming, due to the state's peculiar adaptability to certain profitable crops, there has been a decided trend toward augmenting "cash crops" with table crops as the farmer has had little actual cash to provide for home and family.

There are probably more farmers actually "living off the farm" in California today than in any other period in the last twenty years, according to recent surveys by agricultural officials.

One of the most interesting developments of the farmers' movement to avert unnecessary cash expenditures has been the rapid substitution, on many small farms, of mules and horses for tractors and trucks.

Former Assemblyman Van Bernard of Butte City, who, during his legislative days was familiarly known as the "dirt farm legislator," reports that so many farmers in the Sacramento Valley have returned to mules and horses that good farm animals are actually at a premium for the first time in recent years.

"On the small farm, with little cash income," says Mr. Bernard, "it is still possible to raise feed, whereas it is almost impossible to raise money for gasoline. The small cash return received by the little farmer must be conserved carefully to defray taxes, interest, irrigation charges, and other items which inevitably demand cash outlay. Many farmers in this section are wearing out their last tractor."

It is equally true, however, that on many of the large farms in California it is probably uneconomic to switch from motive horsepower to actual horsepower.

Without attempting to settle the age-old debate as between specialized farming and general farming, the present depression at least has demonstrated that a compromise between two is often good economy, whether or not it is theoretically good economics.

This much is true, at any rate, that horses and mules, if they come back in large number, will also increase the demand for feed. The oil companies' loss will be the hay and grain growers' gain.

The Agricultural Department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce presents the case for and against diversification in a period of reduced buying power as follows:

"For the first time in several years, the agricultural situation in Southern California is perhaps below that of other sections of the state considering the position of the individual grower. Southern California is a section of wide diversity as far as the entire agricultural picture is concerned, but an area where individual specialization has reached its greatest development. This means that while the district as a whole might enjoy a higher total money income, individual growers in certain sections are feeling the lowered price levels acutely. In times like these, the grower who has developed a diversification is in the most secure position."

BOOKS

It Happened One Day, by Marjorie Bartholomew Paradis.

Crises did not come singly to the Turner family, heroes of this modern novel. In the short space of 24 hours each member of the family faced a turning point in his road.

Did Martin Turner, father, choose Life or Death?

Did Francene Turner, mother, choose career or family?

Which should Jane, affectionate eldest daughter, pick when faced with Love or a Successful Marriage?

Should sub-deb Peggy take adventure as she found it in the shape of an adored and spoiled scion of a wealthy family?

Were fraternities an essential part of school life to Seth, the youngest?

These were the questions facing the Turners on that one memorable day. The answers to their problems are found in Miss Paradis' clever novel.

The problems are those facing every day families all over the United States today. The Turner family found its important answers in quite a simple manner. It is worth reading the book to discover their secret. . . .

The Martial Spirit, by Walter Millis; Houghton Mifflin Company, 1931.

A forgotten war is led into the limelight by Mr. Millis and so clearly and amusingly delineated that this "history book" boasts of the fascination of a novel.

The Spanish-American war is his topic. It is an episode which to persons in their forties, fifties, and sixties brings memories of gallant "Teddy" Roosevelt and his intrepid Rough-riders, of Americans fighting for downtrodden Cubans, and of the day when the United States suddenly grew up and announced itself a world power.

However, Mr. Millis proves that the Spanish-American War was more than an episode and yet that it was surely less than a great crusade for unhappy islanders. He distinctly outlines political intrigues, world jealousies, and leaders' schemes which make the war seem but a bubble announcing a volcanic eruption of change beneath it.

The reader senses throughout the book the author's conviction that the war itself was thoughtlessly and badly managed. He begins to believe, with Mr. Millis, that the small group of men who fought disease and Spaniards amidst the tropic jungles might better have stayed at home.

Candid is the entire book, and sane. Mr. Millis is fortunate in that he writes on a topic which is far enough in the past to have been cleared of the maze of emotions ordinarily covering wars, and yet near enough to the present to be clearly described in thousands of records. He is also fortunate in his ability to think clearly.

Romance, and humor, and just a bit of cynicism are buried in this book. It leaves the reader gasping before the possibilities of the future United States. But it also gives him less of awe and more of scorn for war as a weapon.

And for that reason it is worth reading. . . .

Magic Portholes, by Helen Follett; Macmillan Company, 1932.

An adventure story of a girl and her mother who go travelling, on schooners, in, out and among the tropic islands. They acquire amazing friends, and learn unusual things, in this book for teen-age girls. . . .

The above books may be obtained in the Campbell Library.

News of the Week from Campbell Churches

Rev. Marian Hall To Speak On Japan, East

A glimpse of true conditions in Japan and the Far East will be offered to Campbell when the Rev. Marian Hall, formerly of Tokio, Japan, lectures at the Campbell Congregational church, Monday, Sept. 19, at 7:30 p. m.

Moving pictures will accompany the lecture, which will depict life among the peoples of the Orient, with particular emphasis upon the life of the students in the universities.

The Rev. Dr. Hall will be remembered by Campbell audiences for the series of lectures which he gave on six successive Wednesday nights during the previous winter, and which were enthusiastically received.

Formerly a missionary in Japan, the Rev. Dr. Hall has experienced much of life in the Orient. He taught in the Doshisha University, Tokio, Japan, and is well acquainted with the problems of student life.

Since he is a capable and enthusiastic speaker, his audience in Campbell will receive genuine entertainment and accurate information.

Stephen Merrill, star of KPO and KQW, will sing several solos during the evening in honor of Dr. Hall.

A silver offering will be taken, the proceeds of which will be used to defray the lecturer's expenses.

BE CONTENTED AND SATISFIED, SAYS PASTOR

By Mrs. Ada C. Bohman
Pastor, Pentecostal Mission

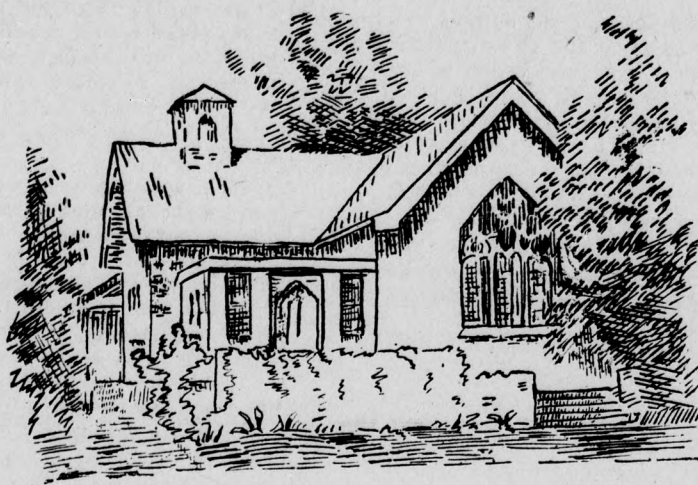

There seems such a lack of contentment among so many people today—so much seeking for satisfaction and never finding it. David tells where real satisfaction comes from in Psalms 107:8, 9: "Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, and for His wonderful works to the children of men! For He satisfieth the longing soul, and filleth the hungry soul with goodness." Yes, God Himself is the source of true contentment.

When my little niece was about five years old, her mother taught her that little verse of scripture in Hebrews 13:5: "Be content with such things as ye have." She went to Sunday School the next Sunday and when the teacher asked for her verse, she immediately gave it in her own words: "Be pleased with what yer got." We smile at the child's way of expressing it, but how few of us are "pleased with what we've got." My friends, it takes the real love of God in our hearts to be contented and how willing He is to help us. The Word says "He hath filled the hungry with good things" and "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."

Wealth does not necessarily make satisfied lives, but a home where God rules and reigns may be a happy and contented one in spite of poverty. Real satisfaction is yielding to God and perfect contentment is being in His will. Surely there is a satisfying portion in the Lord Jesus Christ. Every cloud has a silver lining and as we learn to look up into the face of Jesus, we will find contentment and satisfaction complete.

J. Lee Neil To Lecture On "Armageddon"

The first of a short series of lectures on "Armageddon, Earth's Last War," was given Wednesday night at the Community hall by Evangelist J. Lee Neil. "Armageddon, the great battlefield where occurred the chief conflicts between the Israelites and their enemies. The name was applied to the table land of Esdraelon and Galilee and Samaria, in the center of which stood the town of Megiddo, on the site of the modern Lejjun." (Encyclopedia Americana.) The great battle which God has described in advance will center in this plain about 60 miles north and west of Jerusalem.

According to Mr. Neil the prophecy clearly indicated that the whole world will be involved and just what the issue will be.

General Foch was quoted from the San Francisco Examiner of July 10, 1927 as follows. "The next war will be a World war,—not only the entire manhood of the nations, but the women and children as well will be involved." Also H. G. Wells, during the last war said, "Europe will blunder into a new set of ugly complications, and prepare a still more colossal Armageddon than is now going on."

This subject will be continued next Sunday night, Sept. 18. Mr. Neil promises to make the issue clear from the prophecy. Wednesday, Sept. 21 will be the first of a series of special Bible classes on "What must I do to inherit eternal life?" All are invited to bring Bibles, notebooks and pencils. Mr. Neil said these classes were the most important of all the series.

Thursday night the subject is "The Lord's Day, a sign of loyalty."

tionship to men as a Father to his children.

This was at the heart of the teaching of Jesus. It was the central certainty upon which His own life was based. Even on the Cross His faith was in a "Father" into whose hands He could commend His spirit. It was the promise upon which His teaching of prayer and trust was based.

Next Week Marks Resumption of Boy Scout Activities

The Campbell Boy Scouts will resume activity with the opening of school. Regular Boy Scout troops, in which the older boys are enrolled will hold their initial meeting at the Congregational church Thursday, Sept. 22, after school. Cub scouts will gather after school on Friday, Sept. 23, at the church.

The Rev. Joseph H. Bennett, who has charge of the Scout activities, invites all boys who are interested in Scout work to appear on these meeting days for registration. Boys who have not yet belonged to the Boy Scouts of America and those who have moved too far from their home-town troops and wish to transfer are cordially invited to attend. However, they should apply for membership at either of these first two meetings, since the number of Scouts is limited.

REV. J. BENNETT OFFICIATES AT CHURCH MEETING

The Rev. Joseph H. Bennett, pastor of the local Congregational church, acted as moderator at the autumnal meeting of the Santa Clara District Association of Congregational churches held in Santa Cruz today.

The meeting, which opened in the afternoon, included a business session, reports on the 1932 Asilomar Conference, a sermon by the Rev. M. Pendleton of Redwood City, and a Jubilee Banquet at the Church.

Dennis Bennett, son of the Rev. Bennett, and member of the Campbell Christian Endeavor, delivered an eight-minute talk on the Asilomar Young People's Conference.

A special public meeting will be held in Santa Cruz tonight at which the Rev. Marian Hall, just arrived from Tokio, Japan, will deliver a lecture on the Orient illustrated with moving pictures.

BELOW appear the names of the professional men and Santa Clara county official leaders who have, by their endorsement and support, made possible this department of the Campbell Press . . . Voluntarily they have identified themselves with the pleasurable task of building the community around the church, which is recognized as the pivot point of our social, economic and political structure.

"Prohibition, Yes Or No," Subject Sunday Meet

By Rev. C. E. Irons

A large enthusiastic mass meeting, which taxed the capacity of the local Congregational church, was held last Sunday evening. The call for the meeting was made by the organized young people of Campbell township. The purpose was to gather all the law-abiding citizens of our community in a united body to defeat the proposition that will be voted upon at the November election to recall the Wright Enforcement Law.

Some very fine music was rendered by the united young people's choir, after which C. W. Gawthorpe of San Francisco delivered a very forceable address, making it very clear to his audience that the question before us in this recall movement is not prohibition at all, but whether we shall turn over this wonderful state of California to the rule of the gangster and the bootlegger. The repeal of the Wright Law will not bring back the legal sale of intoxicating liquor, for the Eighteenth Amendment is still the law of the land. But it would make it next to impossible to curb the lawlessness that would flood our beautiful valley. We do not desire to have California run by organized gangsters. We know that gangsters usually are organized bootleggers. If the Wright Law is repealed, no sheriff, constable, or policeman would have any authority to check the activities of this lawlessness that would be, and is even now, a menace to our fair state.

Incidentally the speaker referred to the question of taxes, making a comparison of America and England. England is often spoken of as a country where liquor may be secured under the control of the government. Our taxes do not compare at all in volume with what is paid by the English people. About twenty-five cents of every dollar of English income is taken by the government for taxes. We pay in California $3.00 automobile tax for our license. If you were in England you would pay $56.00 automobile tax. We pay four cents gasoline tax. In England you would pay sixteen cents tax per gallon.

But the speaker clearly put before us that this attempt on the part of the lawless element of our state to repeal the Wright Law is not a question of prohibition at all, but a question for us to settle whether we wish to make it easier for the law-breaker to get away with his crime.

An organization was perfected at the close of the address. The purpose was to enlist all law-abiding citizens in an attempt to preserve the purity and integrity of our homes, and help to make our land safe for ourselves, our women and children.

If you believe in this, we urge you to cooperate with this organization and help to spread the information as to why we should vote "NO" on the repeal of the Wright Law.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES

The Sunday morning sermon, to be given by the Rev. J. H. Bennett, will be on the topic, "It Is More Blessed To Receive Than To Give."

"India" will be the subject of the lecture to be given at the 7:30 p. m. service by Dr. Charles Breuer of Campbell. The discussion will be illustrated by still pictures. This is the second talk given by Dr. Breuer on India; his first audience found him extremely interesting.

Fire starting in the linen closet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rudy, Santa Clara and Los Gatos roads, damaged linens and bed clothing valued at several hundred dollars early Monday morning. The origin of the fire has not been discovered.

Assistant Fire Chief Frank Coupland answered the Rudy's call for help, but the Campbell fire equipment could not be taken since the residence is outside the fire district. Neighbors used their garden hose to extinguish the flames.
